What is far-infrared?

When you divide the spectrum of infrared rays by wavelengths, the zone of electromagnetic wave that is the farthest from the visible light, that is, the zone with the longest wavelength and lowest frequency, is called infrared. Infrared rays penetrate the skin up to 4 to 5 centimeters, which is 80 times deeper than general heat. Also, it makes cells vibrate more than 2,000 every sixty seconds, invigorating the tissues in the cells. The far-infrared sauna therapy is effective in enhancing immunity and beneficial to those with cardiovascular diseases.

What is near-infrared?

Near-infrared is the nearest of the heat radiation which is generated where the temperature of the sun is 1800 ~ 2200 °C. It is a short-wavelength ray that is harmless to our body, where the heat wavelength delivers heat directly to the target object without increasing the temperature of the air. It invigorates living tissues to slow the progress of atopy, melasma, athlete's foot, and aging while stabilizing your brainwave to help you enjoy a deep and comfortable sleep. There are ongoing studies to examine the effect of near-infrared in annihilating cancer.
